TOO MANY COOKS

TAKING THE HOLIDAY OFF BUT RETURNING JULY 10!

A FEAST OF FUNNY, per the Ledger Dispatch

. . . a good farce is a great vehicle for an ensemble cast and each actor adds their own special ingredients to the mix

. . . Mel Moseley debuts in her first Volcano production but is no rookie to the stage. She is an actor, writer, musician and storyteller with national credits who recently moved to the area.

. . . Jason Eves, also an Amador County newcomer with lots of stage experience, is charming and SO funny as the wanna-be chef, Frank Plunkett.

. . . in Lee Thibodeau's first performance with the VTC they ably bring to life the gangster sidekick Shirley, not an easy task for a young actor, and in only their second role ever on stage.

. . . Gary Galloway holds his own as Mickey, the not-so-successful rum runner.

. . . Familiar to VTC audiences: Joel Lesch, who was apparently born to play the gangster "Noodles" Feghetti.

. . . and Ian Davidson, as the bumbling Canadian Constable Effing . . .

. . . and the accomplished Sean Mason as the beleaugered Irving Bubbalowe . . .

. . . Brightening the stage with true comedic instincts is Brooke Dillian, who is just out of hiugh school and absolutely shines in the midst of this experienced cast.

The cast and crew present an extremely fast-paced, demanding show with tons of energy and their own unique spin on each character!
