ON THE FARCE DAY OF CHRISTMAS

What would a family holiday be without love, money and a LOT of drama!

After last years kid-friendly Ebenezer production, we have decided that this holiday season is for mom and dad (and all the adults in the room!). On the Farce Day of Christmas is a riotous comedy which answers the age old question: "Can adult children return to their childhood house, even if just for the holidays?" The answer: Yes, if enough money is involved!

Wendy is going home for Christmas, but she has yet to tell her parents that she and her husband, Gary, are divorced. And they LOVED her now-ex-husband. Possibly even more than she did! So, what's a girl to do but pay the ex to pretend to be her loving husband for a holiday no one will ever forget!

What could go wrong you ask? Well, first, Mom REALLY wants to be "grandma" and is quite determined to make this happen, upstairs, right now, and she has an excellent guide book for the happy couple. Dad is hiding upstairs and won't join in the fun until Wendy's glamorous best friend Karen arrives, catching the wandering eyes of both Dad and Gary. Then Wendy's current flame Chip shows up unannounced just to add a little rockin' 'round this Christmas tree.

Outrageous comedy ensues! Don't miss the fun!
